Sir,

I have the honour to submit herewith the statistical tables relating to Sea Fisheries for the year 1922.

The form of the tables is, in the main, the same as in the last issue. A few changes have, however, been made. Total values have been added in the table (No. 2) showing the quantities landed at each fishing station, and totals for "demersal" fish have been introduced in Tables 1, 2 (a) and 11.

The figures for coasts which have hitherto appeared in the tables corresponding to Nos. 1 and 19 of the present issue, have been omitted in favour of the average figures for the five immediate pre-war years, 1909-13 (Table 1), and the totals for "demersal" and "pelagic" (Table 19) which have not previously been shown for the United Kingdom.

The series of tables relating to pelagic fish at each station (showing the monthly quantities and number of landings and quantities landed by each type of vessel) has been considerably modified. The monthly figures have been omitted altogether and the remaining particulars given (in Table 3) for the more important stations only.

It has long been felt that the yield per unit of fishing power expended in fishing for "white fish" was not accurately indicated by the catch per day's absence from port and, in consequence, an attempt has been made to ascertain the time during which fishing was actually in progress. Some difficulty was experienced in obtaining the particulars, but sufficient data were obtained to enable the catch per 100 hours fishing to be worked out for each region. The results will be found in Table 6 together with the average catch per day's absence which will be retained for comparison with previous years.

In the section "Fishermen and Fishing Vessels" a definition of the classes of fishing vessels has been added (Table 22) and in Table 24 similar particulars to those previously given for first-class vessels only are given for second-class vessels also.

The Imports and Exports Tables have been recast to include in the main series the items shown in separate tables in the last issue. The figures for 1921 have been added and the comparison with 1913 retained, disparities in classification between the pre-war year and 1920 and 1921 being indicated by notes. More detail is given as regards countries of consignment.

As in previous issues the tables dealing with the landings for the United Kingdom, Fishermen and Fishing Vessels and Imports and Exports are either one year in arrear or contain for 1922 provisional figures subject to revision. For these tables the Ministry is dependent upon other Departments.

I am, Sir,

Your obedient Servant,

HENRY G. MAURICE,

Fisheries Secretary.

The Deputy Minister of Fisheries.

*Fishing boats are divided into the following classes:—

The First Class includes all steam and motor boats of 15 tons gross tonnage and upwards and all sailing boats of 15 tons net tonnage and upwards.

The Second Class includes all steam and motor boats of less than 15 tons gross tonnage and other vessels of less than 15 tons net tonnage but of 18 feet keel and upwards.

The Third Class includes all boats (other than steam or motor) under 18 feet keel, except those navigated by oars only and marked with the owner's name and the port or place to which they belong.

†The increase in tonnage of the first-class boats is consequent upon alterations in the registered tonnage of boats made under the Merchant Shipping Act, 1907.

First Class.

Second Class.

* The numbers engaged on War Service were not separately distinguished in 1914 but included under their usual method of fishing.
† The figures for 1921 and 1922 are subject to revision.
NOTE.—The figures for Second Class boats for 1922 are not yet available.
Boats which used the Danish Seine method are included under "Drift Nets" or under the method previously or subsequently employed.
