

GOING E-ONLY: AN EREVOLUTION

M.P. Baligand, A.L. Achard

Cemagref, 3, bis quai Chauveau, 69336, Lyon cedex 09, France

marie-pascale.baligand@cemagref.fr

ABSTRACT: We see that most libraries plan to move their entire journals collection to online only. It's an Erevolution . What are consequences for end users, librarians, publishers and subscription agencies?

In this context, a lot of consortia have emerged. In France the Couperin consortium has been created.

- to evaluate and purchase electronic information products for its members at the best price.
- And to build a national network of skills and exchange in the field of information systems

At international level, consortia gather to put pressure on different actors particularly governments and the European Commission.